Changes within the senior management team

In line with Billerud's focus on business development, the following changes in the senior management team will be made from April 1, 2010.

Magnus Wikström, Technical Director, responsible for business development and investments since 2006, will join the senior management team.

Per Bjurbom will take on a new role as Production Director for the whole of Billerud and will be responsible for all mill and production matters in the senior management team.

Stina Blombäck has at her own request asked to leave her role as mill manager, and therefore her place in the senior management team, to be responsible instead for a number of strategic, group-wide projects.

Other positions in the senior management team remain unchanged.
